1. Chapter 1

When Two Universes Collide

Hi everyone! I know, I know why am I doing this when I have only done one chapter of my other story. Well I am a very forgetful person so when I come up with a story I have to write it down fast. If you don't like it just remember that I'm a beginner, so don't like it don't read it simple. I was reading through some stories when I thought of this. Please no flamers because I'm pretty sure I broke my ankle leaping across the sofa trying to get my laptop. (Or at the very least sprained it.)

Disclaimer: I do not and never will own HTTYD!

Hiccup was lost.

And no matter how many times he told himself he knew this area of the forest, he couldn't put it off any longer. He had no idea where he was.

He sat down on a rock huffing in anger. How could he be lost, he knew every inch of this stupid wood. A whole clump of trees can't just miraculously spring out of the ground, yet it seemed that they had done just that. He stood up and walked on hoping to find anywhere that looked familiar.

A large black dragon hung upside down from a tree.

"_Toothless can't you just fly above the trees to see where we are?"
_Hiccup sighed. _"No I already told you this! There's nowhere to take off!" _The dragon growled in a slightly annoyed tone. _"Don't be such a baby Toothless their just trees." _Hiccup snapped back.

With great dignity Toothless lifted his nose in the air and replied. _"Well why don't you go walk through those thorn bushes ahead and see how you like it." _Hiccup rolled his eyes and carried on walking. _"I'm just saying that you could at least __try_ _to be helpful."_

"_I am being helpful!" _He replied indignantly. _"

_Yeah about as helpful as a sack of stones." _The dragon glared at him but followed him all the same. After a while Toothless spoke again. _"Hey Hiccup." _He yelled _"Watch out for that-." _Hiccup slammed head first into a massive tree trunk. _"Treeâ€|" _Toothless finished as he watched Hiccup slide into unconsciousness.

Far away in a different universe a smallish boy with a longish name sat cold, wet and freezing in a small boat just of the coast of Berk. Hiccup Horrendous Haddock the third. _"Alright T-toothless is f-freezing! Can we go h-home now?" _Stammered his small hunting dragon that was hiding under the bench. _"No we can't." _replied Hiccup. _"This is a sword-fighting at sea lesson you can't just leave!" _

"What's he saying?" asked the wild haired blonde Camicazi, who was sitting next to him. "He wants to go home." Hiccup answered. Camicazi couldn't understand Dragonese so Hiccup normally had to translate for her. Gobber had decided it would be a good idea to have the Bog Burglar trainees practice with the Hooligans.

"I wouldn't mind going home either." Fishlegs, Hiccups best friend, sighed. "All this rowing is really tiring."

"Hiccup!" Bellowed Gobber from the front of the boat. "Move to Camicazi's other side unless you feel like capsizing us in artic cold waters." Slightly reluctant to leave his slightly sheltered seat between Fishlegs and Camicazi, Hiccup stood up and edged his way to Camicazi's other side.

Camicazi stood up to, to let him past but as she did so the boat hit a particularly big wave and she toppled forward cannoning into Hiccup. The rest of the boats occupants where jerked out of their seats. Hiccup fell backwards bashing his head against the mast knocking him out, as you would expect if a 2 inch wide skull collided with a 26 inch mast made of solid oak.

This happened at exactly the same time as, over in the first Hiccup's universe, Hiccup walked into a tree. Both Hiccups were knocked unconscious at the same time in two different universes.

As you can imagine this was about to cause chaos between the two universes.

Hiccup Horrendous Haddock the third was stuck, he just could move. None of his limbs seemed to be paying any attention to what he told them to do. Where was he? What had happened? Oh that's right he had been knocked out during a sword-fighting at sea lesson. So where was he now?

"Hiccup, Hiccup wake up!"

Someone was calling to him. He tried to speak but his mouth wasn't working yet. "Damn it Hiccup wake up right now!"

Another voice, this one louder and more aggressive than the first. "Go away." Hiccup managed to mumble.

"No, you need to wake up." Snapped the first voice.

Reluctantly Hiccup opened his eyes.

Staring down at him was a man dressed in healers clothes. That was all normal there the strange things were the kids standing next to him. They were all about Hiccup age but he'd never seen them round the village before. There were two girls and three boys one boy and one girl were obviously twins, they had blonde hair and green eyes. The second girl looked a bit like Camicazi except her hair was brushed and tied back in a plait she had blue eyes and was carrying a very nasty looking axe.

One of the boys was huge, twice the size of himself, and carried a small knife in a pouch by his side. The last boy looked a lot like his cousin Snotlout only he had brown hair instead of blonde.

"Who are you?" He asked staring up at them with his big green eyes.

The kids looked a bit shocked when he said this but the healer just sighed and said, "Just as I thought, he's got memory loss also known as amnesia."

This puzzled Hiccup "What do you mean? I can remember stuff just not you." He said pointing at the five kids standing next to him. "What's your name?" asked the healer. "Hiccup." Hiccup replied. "Who is your father?"

"Chief Stoick the vast." He answered. "He seems to be remembering ok. Last question, where were you when you bashed your head?"

"On a boat in the sea, I hit my head against the mast."

The healer frowned. "No you were in the woods."

Hiccup stared at him. "No I remember I was-."

"It seems he remembers something's and the things he doesn't his brain has made up answers for him, you lot just need to find a way of jogging his memory." Interrupted the healer. "How do we do that?" Asked blue eyes. "We could try bashing him on the head again." Said the female twin who Hiccup had decided to call Blondie. Blue eyes glared at Blondie before turning to the healer and repeating her question.

"Well you could walk him round the village point out things that might jog his memory that kind of thing." The healer answered. "Come on then let's go!" Yelled the male twin who Hiccup had now named helmet head.

The kids lead Hiccup outside and told them their names.

"I'm Astrid, remember?" Said Blue Eyes. "Tuffnut." Said Helmet Head. "Ruffnut." Said Blondie grinning at him. "Snotlout." Said Brunette Snotlout loudly and slowly as if speaking to an idiot. Hiccup stared. This guy defiantly wasn't his cousin and he'd never heard of anyone else on the island with that name. "I'm Fishlegs." Said Giant Encyclopaedia. This made Hiccup choke. No way was that Fishlegs. The Fishlegs he knew was about ten times smaller than this guy.

"Hey I think he's remembering!" Cried Blondie excitedly. "Yes." Snapped Hiccup. "I already can remember." The kids sighed.

"That's the forge." Murmured Blue Eyes as they passed a small wooden shack. Hiccup frowned. Why were they showing him this stuff? He knew what everything was. He lived on this island for Thor's sake. "That's the long beach." Grinned Helmet Head. "That's a sheep." Pointed out Brunette Snotlout. The others glared at him but continued on anyway. "And this is the arena where we have our dragon training lessons. It used to be where we learnt how to fight them." Said Blue Eyes motioning toward a large circle structured building. "Ring any bells." Giant Encyclopaedia, who was now called E.G, asked.

It had rung a bell. A very large bell.

"Toothless!" Hiccup cried. "Where's Toothless?"

"He's in your house." Said Blue Eyes sounding delighted that he had remembered something. She whistled loudly and a large black dragon came bounding down the hill toward them. Hiccup and the dragon stared at each other for a moment. "Your not my dragon!" Hiccup cried. At that very same second Toothless said, "Your not my human!"

"What's wrong?" Asked Blue Eyes staring at both boy and dragons shocked faces. "Where am!" yelled Hiccup falling backwards in an attempt to get away from the dragon. "Who are you and what have you done with my human you imposter!" Snarled Toothless backing away from the boy. "Listen I don't know where I am or how I got here all I can remember is I was on a boat, I bashed my head against the mast and when I woke up I was here!" Hiccup said his voice trembling as he stared up at Toothless who had unfolded his wings in an attempt to look bigger and, in Hiccup's option, scarier.

Toothless frowned at Hiccup and was about to say something when Blue Eyes suddenly spoke up. "Toothless I don't know what he's saying to you but he's got amnesia and he doesn't remember much."

"He's got a lot more than that girly." Replied Toothless even though he knew she wouldn't understand him. "So where's our Hiccup?" He asked. "I don't know, I don't know why I'm even here." Cried Hiccup. "Hm stop blathering for a moment I've just had an idea." Snapped Toothless.

"I think I know how I can help you and our Hiccup just listen and I'll explain."

Done! Do you like it so far? If not then hang on because it (probably) will get better.

Please R&R otherwise I won't continue, for those of you who don't know what that means it means review or else! And just so you know I don't mind consistent reviewers! hint, hint **

2. Chapter 2

When Two Universes Collide

All I can say is wow! I posted the story Thursday night and woke up in the morning to 5 reviews! Thank you, thank you oh and I'm sorry about the whole there problem but my computers spell check said it was fine. **

Also I'm trying to make it easy for you to know which Hiccups are which but hopefully now you'll know that they have switched universes and so movie Hiccup is at the moment in book Hiccups world and book Hiccup is in movie Hiccups world. Now let's continue. (Try and guess which Hiccup this is.) One more thing I got a review from _Portgas D. Nikky_ and I just want to say I did in no way copy this and everything in this chapter I thought of ages ago and that you need to put up the forth chapter of your story because its great! :D

Disclaimer: â€|

Hiccup woke up to a thumping headache and four pairs of worried eyes.

"Hiccup are you ok." Asked a very small voice from his left. Hiccup turned to see a pretty green eyed girl staring down at him. Her hair looked wild and windswept and beside her stood a small boy with glasses and brown eyes. An over excited green hunting dragon was jumping up and down on his stomach. The last pair of eyes belonged to someone he knew very well only looked different.

"Gobber." Hiccup mouthed. He sat up rubbing the grogginess from his eyes.

"You took a nasty hit there lad." Said Gobber helping him to his feet. "But not the worst injuries most of the other boys cracked skulls or broke their arms just look at Camicazi."

The girl Gobber had called Camicazi rolled up her sleeve to reveal an ugly red gash along her arm. Hiccup frowned. "What other injuries?" He said slowly as his voice returned to him. "You know on the boat." Gobber said staring at him.

"Boat?"

"Yes you remember the boat!" Gobber was getting frantic now. But then, Hiccup thought, this guy was only similar to Gobber. "I'm sorry." Said Hiccup shaking his head. "But who are you?"

The four stared at him for a minute before the small dragon suddenly spoke up. _"H-hiccup is y-you ok?" _

"_I'm sorry but you must have the wrong person." _Hiccup murmured. He repeated this in Norse then backed away slightly trying to get away from these madmen who kept going on about boats.

"Hiccup it's me Fishlegs and that's Camicazi please remember us!" Cried the small boy. Hiccup frowned that guy wasn't Fishlegs and he'd never heard of any Camicazi. "I'm sorry." He mumbled again. "But I really don't know who you are."

All four stared at him in horror. "We need to get him to the healer's tent." Camicazi cried jumping to her feet and dragging Hiccup up the beach. "I'm fine!" He spluttered as Camicazi continued to drag him. "Fine enough to forget us!"

"I told you I have never met you before." Hiccup protested. Camicazi just growled and kept walking, for someone so small she was really very strong.

When they got to the healer all he said was that Hiccup had amnesia, after that Fishlegs and Camicazi walked him round the village reminding him of things that 'used' to be important to him. "Can you remember anything about how you were knocked out?" Asked Camicazi. "Yes I was walking through the woods and I bashed into a tree." He replied. The two just sighed and carried on. "How about Snotlout can you remember him?"

"What about him?"

"Well he's your cousin and you hate him!"

"Not hate just dislike."

Camicazi stared. "Wow you are messed up at the moment." The small green hunting dragon had been very quiet during most of this walk but now he suddenly spoke. "I is t-thinking that you i-is not my h-human." He said quietly. "Well then your probably right but try telling them that." Hiccup gestured toward Fishlegs and Camicazi. "S-so why is you in m-my h-humans body." Responded the dragon.

"Who are you again?" Hiccup asked. "I is T-toothless."

"Why do you stutter when you speak?" The little dragon glared at him and replied. "T-that is none of your b-business. Now a-answer my q-question."

"I don't know ok I just woke up here this place isn't my Berk itsâ€¦ different."

"Bad?"

"No just different."

"Stay here I'll be back."

And with that the tiny little creature flapped his wings and flew off. Hiccup continued on with Fishlegs and Camicazi hoping that this was all a dream and that he would soon wake up in proper Berk with his friends and not with these strange people.

This is a line

Over in the other universe Toothless had explained to Hiccup his plan.

He had been surprised to find that this Hiccup seemed to be quite good with plans and had let him make improvements. "So your going to find some mystical lady with rune stones who'll apparently show these weird kids what they need to do to get there Hiccup back then go over to my universe and show Fishlegs and Camicazi the same thing?"

"Well if you want to put it like that then yeah." Muttered Toothless cross that his carefully thought out plan had been explained so quickly and easily.

While Hiccup and Toothless had been talking the other kids, namely Astrid, were trying to figure out how to get Hiccup's memory back. "Hey I've got a good one!" Grinned Tuffnut. "Ruffnut should sneak up behind him and bash him over the head."

"Already thought of that one genius." Ruffnut snapped back. "No Tuffnut could actually be right! If one of us bashes Hiccup again maybe his memories will come back. Give it a try Ruff." Said Astrid. Ruffnut grabbed a small stick and quietly crept up behind Hiccup. Toothless had bounded off somewhere so he wasn't a problem. "Alright Hiccup sorry in advance." Whispered Ruffnut raising the stick over her head.

1 hour later:

"How was I to know he wasn't the real Hiccup!" Snapped Ruffnut. "Well maybe because I told you about 20 times that there was a mistake and I didn't know you." Hiccup snapped back nursing his still sore head.

After Ruffnut had whacked Hiccup on the head with the branch Toothless had arrived with who Hiccup had called the mystical lady, but she was really just the town's fortune teller. The woman had then explained to the 5 kids what had happened in the two universes and how second universe Hiccup was now with them in the first universe.

"So I guess that means that our Hiccup's in the other universe." Astrid had said. The woman had then explained that she was going to the other side, as she liked to call it, to tell Camicazi and Fishlegs the same thing then she vanished.

"I think you need to tell us what your universe is like." Astrid murmured to Hiccup. "Then at least we will know what our Hiccup is in store for."

A/N:

Ok even I found that hard to follow! If you want me to put which Hiccup's which at the top of each new scene in the rest of the chapters then just say!

Right is that all? Good. Now onto the story!

It took Hiccup a while but he finally explained everything to Astrid, Fishlegs, Snotlout and the twins.

"Soâ€|" Said Astrid when he'd finished. "What now?" Hiccup shrugged, "I think we just waitâ€|" he muttered shivering. "Are you cold?" Astrid asked. "No." He replied still shivering. "It's the middle of summer why would I be cold?"

"Well for one thing you have goose-bumps all up your arm." Said Ruffnut flatly. "And your shivering like mad." Astrid said frowning. Hiccup looked down at himself confused. "Oh yeah." He murmured faintly. "Is something wrong?" Astrid asked, but she was cut off when the fortune teller suddenly came running out of the woods.

For such an old lady she really was quite agile, her violet eyes glared angrily at the kids. "What have you done?" She rasped in her cracked old voice. "N-nothing I swear!" Stammered Astrid, for women really was quite frightening. "I have been to the other side and I have seen it! Do not tell me that you have done nothing when with my own withered old eyeballs I have seen it!" She shrieked. "Listen here you! We've just been sitting here talking to someone who isn't even from our universe so don't you dare come here and tell me that we've have done something wrong!" Astrid snapped.

The lady scraped a dirty, knurled fingernail across the ground. Astrid tried to say something but she was waved away by the fortune teller who was still drawing symbols in the dust. When she had finished she looked up at the six children and said. "Listen carefully for I shall only say this once. Go to the cove, there is a rock there with these runes carved onto them I want you to close your eyes and just walk into it."

"You want us to walk into a rock." Ruffnut droned. "Yes now let me finish!" The woman snapped. "Once through the rock you will find yourselves in a mist, listen to the riddle and figure it out, after that you are on your own."

"Wait a second I'm still on the first partâ€|" A rockâ€|?" asked Snotlout.

"Yes!" She snapped angrily. "I have told the two on the other side this and they shall meet you at the green door now hurry!" And with that she turned and hurried away into the woods. "Wait!" Astrid shouted after her retreating figure. "What door what are you talking about?" But the fortune teller had already gone. "Stupid, mad lady." Astrid muttered. "Come on let's go."

"You're not actually going to do what that mad old witch said are you?" Snotlout asked. "Well what else can we do?" She growled. So off they all set toward the cove.

Camicazi, Fishlegs and Hiccup 1 were at the harbour when the witch appeared. When she had first appeared about of what seemed to be no where everyone had been in shock, but then they settled into their own emotions.

Camicazi had been aggressive, Fishlegs had been frightened and Hiccup had been relived to finally find someone who he recognised as the village fortune teller. "She had explained to them what was going on in the other universe and what they had to do to get Hiccup back. At first everyone had thought that it was some kind of joke, especially when she had told them to walk through a docked boat with special runes on it and then she went on about a riddle and waiting by red door.

But finally she had convinced them she was completely sane then vanished as quickly as she had appeared. "Who was that?" Camicazi gasped. "The fortune teller." Said Hiccup. "Come on we've got to get to the boat."

When they reached the boat they turned and looked at each other uncertainly. "Umâ€¦ how about you go first?" Fishlegs said to Hiccup. "It's your universe after allâ€¦"

"No way you go first!" Hiccup snapped back. "Will you guys shut up!" Camicazi hissed. "I'll go first." Camicazi walked a little way back off the pebbly beach and took a deep breath. Then she ran full tilt at the boats hull where the runes were. The boys saw her brace herself getting ready to hit the wooden side hard. But instead of crashing into 3 solid layers of the finest wood Berk had, she went straight through it and disappeared.

The boys gasped, then one by one they ran at the hull too and each of them vanished into the wooden casing. They seemed to have a big head start, too bad, they were going to have a long wait.

A/N:

Sorry, sorry, sorry I know this was short but I'm seriously running out of ideas fast! So I'm sorry! I am REALLY tired at the moment I don't understand why but oh wellâ€¦

Please R&R! Toudaloo see ya soon! **

4. Chapter 4

When Two Universes Collide

A/N:

Iâ€| have returnedâ€|! With the next chapter of, as I like to call it, WTUC! Thank you, thank you! Yes I know I'm amazingâ€| Just kidding you lot are the amazing ones :D Thanks for all the reviews!

Anyway I should shut up and continue with the chapter soâ€| Ready set write!

Yes a long wait they would have because Astrid, Toothless, Snotlout, Fishlegs, the twins and the other Hiccup had not even started, they were still searching for the 'special rock' in the cove.

"So what is this rock supposed to look like?" Asked Ruffnut aimlessly kicking a pebble into the lake. "I don't know just check as many rocks as you can for one with runes on it." Astrid said picking up a stone, checking it over then chucking it over her shoulder. Hiccup sat on a small boulder his head in his hands and his eyes shut. "Umâ€| Hiccup are you okay?" Tuffnut asked. Slowly Hiccup opened his eyes and looked at them.

"I've been thinkingâ€|" He said "About what?" asked Snotlout who was lying spread-eagled in a small pile of discarded rocks next to an overexcited Toothless who was having great fun digging up tiny little pebbles and flinging them in the kids direction. "Well." Hiccup said licking his lips in thought. "I and the other me are in each other's bodies as you can probably see." At this he glared at the fake foot. "Soâ€|" Astrid questioned. "So it's all well and good knowing how to swap universes but how do we change bodies again, I don't want to get stuck with this leg forever.

Astrid sat down next to him brushing her hair out her eyes as she did so. "Well let's forget about that for the moment first we need to actually find your universe. Wow there's something I never thought I'd say."

"Hey guys!" Fishlegs yelled from the other side of the cove. "I mean we can't do anything till we find that stupid rock." She complained. "Um guys I really think you need to-." Fishlegs yelled. "Yeah I know!" Ruffnut said sitting down. "I mean that lady couldn't have been just a tiny bit more helpful could she?" "GUYS!" Fishlegs yelled. "What?" They all snapped turning to look at him.

"I've found the runes."

The others rushed over and saw Fishlegs standing next to a massive boulder. Fishlegs pushed the great rock slightly to the side so that the kids could see small runes etched into the solid stone. "Soâ€| now what?" Asked Tuffnut voicing the question on everyone's mind. "I guess now we go through itâ€| any volunteers?" Asked Astrid.

"Troll breath here will do it!" Ruffnut grinned shoving her brother forward. "No way you go first!" Tuffnut yelled dragging Ruff in front of him. "Don't push me!" She snapped shoving him again. "Well stop pushing me then!" Growled Tuffnut shoving her back.

"Why don't you!"

"No you!"

"You!"

"You!"

"GUYS!" Hiccup yelled. "I'll go first." Hiccup took a few steps back and ran at the rock his instincts slowing him down slightly just before he hit it. But he didn't. He ran straight through and into a foggy nowhere. "Where am I?" He wondered aloud, all he could see was the boulder he'd just run through and fog, fog and more fog. Suddenly Astrid came running through cannoning into him.

Hiccup and Astrid crashed to the floor while one by one the others came running through and landed on top of them. Snotlout was the last through and the first up off the pile of Vikings teens and their dragon.

"Woah this place is creepyâ€|" He muttered looking around. The others began to sit up rubbing various sore patches where they'd crashed into each other. Tuffnut frowned and squinted at the fog as if it would help. "I can't see a thing through all this mist." He muttered. Astrid helped Hiccup to his feet while behind them Ruffnut stood up rubbing her hip where she'd collided with her brother.

All seven stared into the mist.

"Which way do we go?" Whispered Ruff not wanting to break the silence. "She said answer the riddle." Hiccup said shrugging. "We'll go forwards." So they all went on for a while till Tuffnut said. "Hey let's play I spy."

"With what dunderbrain!" Ruffnut growled. "Mist?" Tuffnut carried on regardless. "I spy with my little eye something beginning with F."

"Fog?" Asked Ruffnut. "Correct!" Said Tuff. "But I bet you won't get this one I spy with my little eye something beginning with F."

"Fog?" Snotlout asked. "Aw man I can't believe you guessed it!"

1 hour later

"I spy with my little eye something beginning with F."

"Fog?" Asked Hiccup wearily. "Wow you guys are good at this game!" Tuffnut exclaimed looking impressed. "THAT'S BECAUSE IT'S BEEN FOG FOR THE LAST HOUR!" Screamed Ruffnut clutching her head. "Calm down Ruff! I know he's an idiot but you can't kill himâ€| yetâ€|" Astrid soothed.

"I spy with my little eye something beginning with S." Tuffnut said staring off into the mist. "Where can you see something beginning with S.?" Fishlegs asked looking puzzled. "I can't say that would be cheating." Tuffnut grinned.

Suddenly Toothless started growling at something a little way ahead, all the teens turned and saw a dark shape in the mist. They began to walk toward it. "See!" Tuffnut grinned when they reached it. "Something beginning with S, a skeleton!" and indeed there it was a skeleton sitting up on a high wall grinning nastily at them.

Ruffnut shivered, "That things creepy." She muttered. "Looks like someone lost their way in the mist and never got out again..." Hiccup said shivering. They all sat down thinking about what to do, after a while Astrid stood up and walked across to the skeleton. "It's femine." She whispered. "It's only a little girl." Ruffnut stood and touched something half hidden on the little girl's bony wrist.

"This bracelet has her name engraved on it we can find out who she was." She murmured. "Hope Goodchild." Astrid read. Everyone was quiet for a moment.

"Let's go this way." Hiccup said standing up, no one felt like hanging around next to Hope's skeleton any longer. They set off through the walled archway.

After about half an hour Snotlout decided to break the silence. "Doe's this bit of fog look familiar to you lot?" He asked. "How doe's fog look familiar?" Ruffnut asked but was shushed by Hiccup. "Look!" He yelled excitedly, "There's a shape in the mist up there!"

The kids ran forward eager to reach the shape.

"Hey!" Astrid yelled. "It's that skeleton again!"

"But that's impossible!" Ruffnut gasped. "We went past it half an hour ago!" But there it was, the horrible grinning skeleton of Hope Goodchild sitting on top of the walled archway. "Maybe it's another one!" Hiccup said. "come on let's keep walking." So they did and half an hour later guess what!

"This is getting ridiculous." Astrid growled glaring at the skeletons paper white skull and shiny white teeth. It was as if it were laughing at them, mocking them. "This is leading us nowhere." Tuffnut complained. Toothless grunted his support, he had been quite quiet during most of the trip but now he spoke to Hiccup directly. "_Listen boy-who-is-not-my-Hiccup do you even KNOW where we're going?"

"_Why do people always expect me to have the answer!" _Hiccup snapped. "_Just because I'm always 'the man with plan.'"_

Toothless sighed clearly irritated and walked back to the skeleton. "So what now?" Snotlout asked. Hiccup bashed his head against the archway. "I don't know!" Said his muffled voice.

"Who are you?" Came a soft voice.

Everyone jumped. A tiny little girl who must have been about 7 or 8 walked up to them, her soft footsteps echoed through the mist. "Who are you?" The child repeated. The kids stared, the little girl laughed and began to sing skipping round and round the teens. Ruffnut moved forward to help her or do anything as any normal person would when they found a small child wandering about on her own in the middle of nowhere. But as soon as Ruffs hand touched her the little girl stopped singing and her step faltered, she let out a piercing scream and recoiled. Ruff jumped back surprised.

"What are you doing out here on your own?" Astrid asked. "I live here." The girl replied. The kids stared at her but before they could reply the child pointed at the skeleton sitting on the archway. "Do you want to know how she died?" She asked. The others nodded.

"Well." The girl began. "She was playing hide and seek with her dragon when the song played, such pretty music." The girl sighed and began singing the same tune as before her sweet voice echoing around them, and then her face turned serious. "She could not follow the tune because the fog had come and she could not see where to go but her dragon knew, he could sense it and he followed the music. She tried to follow too, oh how she longed to follow the pretty, pretty music!" The girl sighed and a dreamy look crossed her face. "But she could not and she needed her dragon to help her find her way out the mist but he was gone. Then the darkness came!" The girl shivered but continued. "It murdered her that night in her sleep, she would have died from hunger anyway but the darkness speeded it up! I watched the darkness go that night, I watched it kill her!" The child shivered then started singing again.

After a minute she reached out and took Astrid's hand. Her fingers where icy and Astrid almost yanked them away when the girl first touched her. "Get away before the darkness comes!" She whispered in Astrid's ear, even her breath was ice cold. Astrid tried to move away but the child's grip was too tight. "Get away!" She whispered once more. "I don't know how!" Astrid cried fear trickling into her heart as she once again tried and failed to tear away from the girl's icy grip. The girl's cold blue eyes bore into her face. "What has four legs in the morning, two legs in the afternoon and three legs in the evening?" The girl asked before vanishing into the swirling mist leaving the kids gaping at the empty space that she had once filled.

5. Chapter 5

When Two Universes Collide

A/N:

Hi everyone. Hi China, America, Canada, Indonesia, Africa, Brazil, (I especially love all you lot from Brazil!) Russia um! running out of countries! oh yeah how could I forget the lovely UK! Ok um! Greece, India, Japan! And! that country! in! I'll just say hi Asia, Europe, South America- oh wait Argentina! I'm a quarter Argentinean. (Did I spell that right sorry if I didn't) anyway on with the story!

Camicazi, Fishlegs and Hiccup one were lost.

"It's official we are just going round in circles." Fishlegs complained. "We are not!" Hiccup snapped. "I know exactly where we are!"

"Yeah so do I, it's called the middle of nowhere." Camicazi growled. "Hey look a door like the one in the riddle." cried Fishlegs. "See told you!" Hiccup commented to Camicazi who was paying absolutely no attention what-so-ever to him. They reached the door and Camicazi tugged at the handle. "Locked." She stated. "Are you joking me!" Fishlegs cried. "I thought you were Ze Great Camicazi, master escaper! No prison can hold you! But you let a measly lock get in the way of finding Hiccup!"

"Thanksâ€¦" Hiccup muttered. "Sorry didn't mean you." Fishlegs whispered. Well of course that did it for Camicazi she could never resist a challenge, the little blonde spent two hours trying to pick the lock with various hairpins, skeleton keys, chipped pieces of rock and any small thin bits and bobs she found lying about the place while Hiccup and Fishlegs spent the hours playing battleships in the dirt, but of course this game soon finished when they got up for a minute and came back to find that their game had been swallowed up by the greedy fog.

Finally Camicazi gave up. "I've never known a lock I couldn't pick beforeâ€¦" She sighed. Just then a voice made them all jump. "Well it is a magic door and you do not have a magic key. "Who are you? Come out and fight like a girl!" Camicazi hollered. "I think I'd rather stay here thank you." Said the voice casually. "Coward." She huffed.

"Who are you?" Asked Hiccup. "Let's save introductions for later first I shall play a game with you, a battle of wits shall we call it." Said the voice. "What kind of game?" Fishlegs asked suspiciously. "I shall give you three riddles, if you guess the right answer then you win and I give you the key but if I win I get to kill you here in the mist where no one can hear you scream." Replied the voice. The kids shivered. "We accept!" Yelled Camicazi before the others could get a word in. "Camicazi!" Hiccup cried. "What have you done?" Camicazi shrugged. "Nothing." She muttered. The others stared at her. "Too later to take it back." Laughed the voice, "Your riddle beginsâ€¦ 'What always runs but never walks, often murmurs, never talks, has a bed but never sleeps, has a mouth but never eats?'"

The kids thought and thought and thought. "What runs but never walksâ€¦?" Camicazi thought. "What murmurs but never talksâ€¦?" thought Fishlegs. Suddenly Hiccup had it! "I've got it!" He yelled. "It's a river!"

"Very good." Said the voice sarcastically. "But you won't get the next one. "The part of the bird that is not in the sky, I can swim in the ocean and yet remain dry."

"A shadow." Camicazi yelled. "Yes that's right." Growled the voice sounding annoyed. "But you won't get my last one. "I turn my head and you may go where you want. I turn it again, you will stay till you rot. I have no face, but I live or die by my crooked teeth. Who am I?" They thought for a long, long, long, long time and eventually Camicazi whispered, "I don't know." Hiccup's face went white "neither do I."

"Do you give up?" They were about to answer when suddenly Fishlegs sat bolt upright. "A KEY!" He shouted. The other two stared at him and the voice shrieked as if in pain. "Is that correct!" Hiccup asked almost shouting as excitement bubbled up in his chest. "It is!" Hissed the voice like a dying ember. Camicazi squealed with excitement and hugged Fishlegs, squeezing all the oxygen out of his lungs. "Very good!" muttered the voice. "I guess this means I shall have to go somewhere else to find my supper, here you go but be warned children there is a darkness that shall come." And with that a key was tossed out of the mist and landed at Hiccup's feet. "Wait, who are you?" Hiccup yelled but the voice had gone.

"Well then let's go!" Camicazi said grinning from ear to ear. Hiccup Camicazi and Fishlegs turned the lock in the door and stepped through.

This is a line (remember that)*

"What _was _that?" Ruffnut gasped for the fifth time. "Don't worry about that right now, that riddle she told us must mean something." Astrid muttered. "What creature changes how many legs it has at different times in the day." Fishlegs wondered. Hiccup thought for a moment then said. "I don't think it means a day it could mean a year or even a lifetime."

"But that still doesn't explain it!" Astrid said. Everyone went back to their thoughts. "I'VE GOT IT!" Hiccup yelled. "It's a human!"

"What?" asked the others. "Think about it." He said, "A baby crawls on all fours in the morning of life, in the afternoon of life a man walks on two legs then in the evening of life an old man walks with two legs and a stick!"

"You're right!" cried Astrid. "THE ANSWERS A HUMAN!" At that a small wooden door appeared in front of them. "Try the handle!" Yelled Ruffnut. They ran to the door, but Toothless had had enough of this and gathered a fireball at the back of his throat and blasted the door to smithereens. Hiccup stopped for a minute but the others ran through the door without a second glance at the smoke beginning to rise off it.

Behind the door was a small round stone room with a small green door with the words '_To The Other Side, Enter at own risk.' _Engraved in gold letters. "That's defiantly Berk." Hiccup muttered. "So what now?" asked Tuffnut. Hiccup turned to reply but stopped and stared at the door behind Tuffnut that was slowly starting to rebuild itself. After five minutes the smoking heap of wood was now a gleaming red door with the words, '_To the Barbaric Archipelago, beware of dragons!' _written in fine spiralling handwriting.

Suddenly there was a loud bang from the other side of the green door and Fishlegs, Camicazi and Hiccup one tumbled out along with a lot of purple smoke. "Man!" Camicazi yelled, "That is one angry voice!"

"Camicazi!" Hiccup two yelled. "Hiccup!" Camicazi grinned happily at him. "By the way, do we have to go back through that door because there is a very angry voice out there and it's got smoke bombs." Hiccup two rolled his eyes at her, typical Camicazi, not one for greetings. "Hiccup!" Astrid yelled hugging Hiccup one tightly, "We thought we'd lost you!"

"So what happens now?" Ruffnut asked. "What happens is I get my leg back." Said Hiccup two hopping about as if to underline the point. "So how do we do that?" Asked Hiccup one.

"â€|"

Everyone stood there for a moment when suddenly an all too familiar soft voice whispered. "I can change you back."

Everyone turned and low and behold there stood the little girl staring up at them with big, cold, ice-blue eyes. "Who are you?" Camicazi asked staring right back at her. "Long story short she a creepy little girl who walks around on her own in the mist singing songs and watching something called the darkness kill people." Snotlout growled. At the mention of the darkness Hiccup one, Camicazi and Fishlegs stood up stiff.

"I'll help you switch bodies and transport you to your dimensions so you won't have to face 'The Voice' or 'The Mist' again, but first you must do something for me."

"Oh no not another riddle!" Ruffnut moaned. "Don't worry it's not a riddle." Said the girl, the kids sighed with relief. "Oh no I want you to guess my name!" Said the child. The others stared. "Your name?" Fishlegs stammered. "Yes." Said the girl, "I lost my name years ago and now I want you to help me as I am about to help you."

6. Chapter 6

When Two Universes Collide

A/N:

*STOP COMPLAINING ABOUT MY GRAMMER! headesk Don't take this the wrong way I love all constructive criticism I get but grammar is just one of those horrible little things in life that everyone has to know. It's like learning masculine and feminine nouns in French, wait I'm not going there I'm already mad at my best friend Blipity Boo ever since she's started reading those French fanficsâ€| :| Anyway thanks musiclover99 for your beta offer but I don't believe in betas. They basically do all the work for you and if someone isn't good at a certain thing then they should keep trying till they can do it instead of getting people to do it for them.*

I know Grammar ruins the story but please bear with me I will get better just keep telling me if I make a mistake.

"But how are we meant to know your name?" Ruffnut stammered but her attempts were useless for the girl had already wandered off into a daydream. Suddenly she stopped dead in her tracks.

"I can hear it again!" She whispered bristling with fear, "It's the music the pretty music has come back for me!" the little seven year old began singing again but this time Hiccup two noticed something he hadn't before, when the girl reached a certain point in the song she would abruptly stop then start again from the beginning as if nothing had happened.

"Your Hope." He whispered deathly pale. The others stared at him in confusion.

"That's it." She cried delightedly, "My name you guessed my name."

"Well now that's over can you please sort us out or whatever you were going to do?" Camicazi asked drily.

"But your dead!" Astrid whispered ignoring Camicazi.

"Yes I suppose I amâ€|" Hope mused; suddenly she screamed and clutched the sides of her head. "MUSIC!" She screamed, "Its DARK!" and just like that her legs crumpled beneath her and she flopped to the floor like a little rag doll. The others stared at her.

"Hope?" Ruffnut whispered.

Hope sat up and glared at her, "Help me remember!" she growled, suddenly she turned on Hiccup two, "You guessed my name now help me remember, remember the music, the music! THE MUSIC!"

Hiccup two stepped back but it was useless she had him cornered. "I don't understand!" He cried. "THE MUSIC!" she screamed "oh how does it go? It always stops!" she began singing again but this time quietly.

Hiccup one had been standing quietly in the corner watching all of this with mild interest, then when he heard Hope sing again he realised where he had heard the song before, it was an old Viking song about ghost and ghouls meant to scare children.

"I think I know the song Hope." He said uncertainly stepping forward.

"Can you play the fiddle?" she asked so seriously it was hard not to laugh.

"Noâ€|" he said slightly unsure of what she was letting on.

"Well you better learn it then." And from out of nowhere she pulled a small chestnut fiddle from behind her and passed it to him. "Play my song." She said quietly.

"Can you play the fiddle?" Hiccup one whispered to Astrid.

"No but I used to play the drums I think their similar." Came her whispered reply.

"Forget it I'll just wing it." He muttered positioning the fiddle under his chin, to be fair he tried to play but it just came out as a long screech, the girl hissed as if in pain and clutched her ears.

"Oh give it here!" Camicazi snapped snatching the fiddle from him. "I took lessons let's hope I can remember them."

So after Hiccup one had hurriedly whispered the tune to her Camicazi picked up the bow and began to play a quick eerie tune that was the song of Hope Goodchild, as she played Hope began to sing her soft voice cutting through the slight fog that had leaked into the chamber like a knife through butter.

The Song of Hope Goodchild

Come and dance the death walk beneath the silver moon,

Don't you know the death walk? I'll teach you very soon,

The dead they stomp their feet,

Come twirl and spin and skip with me,

And let your life go floating free.

As the song came to an end and the last wavering notes of the fiddle died away Hope sighed as if freed from something dark that surrounded her.

"Thank you." She sighed quietly, there was a rush of wind and everyone shut their eyes when they opened them again they were home.

"Thank Thor for that!" Astrid sighed "I hope I never have to do anything like that again!" the others muttered their agreements and started off back to the village, Astrid stopped and turned to Hiccup, her Hiccup, who was standing very still as if listening for something.

"Hiccup?" She asked.

"Listen." He said quietly, and Astrid did and just for a second the wind floating through the trees sounded just like the voice of Hope Goodchild.

The wind sings in the west,
